OREGON

State Insane and Idiotic Asylum.

DRS. HAWTHORNE & LORYEA,

PHYSICIANS & PROPRIETORS.

IN PURSUANCE OF A LAW PASSED BY THE present Legislative Assembly, the Oregon State Insane and Idiotic Asylum is located in East Portland, in this county, Drs. Hawthorne & Loryea, Physicians and Proprietors.

The Proprietors of the above Establishment will immediately make additions to their present buildings, in order to offer accommodations to all who are unfortunate enough to need the care and treatment of an Insane or Idiotic Asylum.

It is specially requested on the part of County Judges, guardians and friends of this class of patients, to have them immediately conveyed to the Asylum, so that they may be properly cared for before the inclement weather sets in.

THE INDIGENT WILL BE SUPPORTED AT THE EXPENSE OF THE STATE, and no record of debt made against them. For further particulars apply to

DRS. HAWTHORNE & LORYEA,

Physicians of the Oregon State Insane & Idiotic Asylum, Portland, Multnomah county, Oct. 10, 1863.

WILCOX & GIBBS SEWING MACHINE.

We would call attention to the following facts in connection with this Machine, which renders it superior to any other in use:

It forms a flat elastic seam which will not rip or ravel;

It is entirely noiseless;

A patented device prevents its being turned backward;

The needle cannot be set wrong;

Can be used successfully without other instructions than accompany the Machine;

It received the Gold Medal of the American Institute in 1863. For particulars, enquire of

One of the children of Gen. Sherman died a few weeks ago at the Notre Dame school, Indiana. The funeral services were performed by Bishop Rosecrans, brother of the General.

Forty millions of pamphlets, tracts and electioneering handbills of various kinds, have been put through the mails this year free of postage, under the franks of Members of Congress.

A notice of a recent steamboat explosion in a Western paper, ends as follows: "The Captain swam ashore. So did the chambermaid: she was insured for $15,000, and loaded with iron."

An iron letter has just been sent by mail from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, to England. The iron was rolled so thin that the sheet was only twice the weight of a similar sized sheet of ordinary note paper.

J. B. says: "If you have supe fur brakefast don't undertake to eat it with your fingers, not ef you kan git a forke, and never wipe yure noze on the tabl kloth as long as you hav got a coat-sleeve."

The Echo du Pacifique, which is usually very well-informed about the movements and interests of the French in Mexico, has had nothing to say about Gwin, even since the discussion in the English journals.

A rebel officer confined on Johnson's Lake Erie, recently gave birth to a bouncing boy. The surprise of all at the startling event was somewhat allayed when it was discovered that the officer was a female.

A rebel legal authority has given the solemn opinion that the men under Grant and Sheridan are on the soil of Virginia "contrary to the organic law of the country and in violation of the laws of the Commonwealth."

Sydney Smith says, regarding the unnecessary consumption of food: "According to my computation, I have eaten and drunken between my tenth and seventieth year, four horse-wagon loads more than was good for me."

The Montery Gazette says that James Sargent has sold his ranch near San Juan, in Monterey county, for $150,000. It cost him about $5,000. The parties who purchased it will expend $25,000 to develop the oil springs on the place.

Judge Rooke, in going the Western Circuit, had a great stone thrown at his head; but from the circumstance of his stooping very much, it passed over him. "You see," said he, "had I been an upright judge, I might have been killed."

A peddler distributed a large quantity of Madagascar Rat Exterminator in a neighborhood, and yet the vermin were as alive and active as ever. On being told that it had no effect, "Perhaps," said the imperturbable peddler, "yours may not be the Madagascar rats."

The Emperor of China, after the restoration of Nankin to the Imperialists by capture, ordered that the Chung-Wang and Kan-Wang—each a Jeff Davis—should be "cut into a thousand pieces," near the ruins of their palaces, and the sentence has been carried into execution.

A mercantile man of Foote's acquaintance had written a poem, and exacted a promise that Foote would listen to it, but he dropped off before the end of the first line, "Hear, O Phœbus, and ye Muses nine!" "Pray, pray be attentive, Mr. Foote." "I am," said Foote. "Nine and one are ten."

A new dodge at New York is for a well dressed and well appearing pretty young woman to step out to you and pathetically ask you for aid for her poor sick mother. You take out your pocket book, being melted by her touching story and good looks, and just then a fellow who has come up behind you, snatches away your pocket book and makes off.

Not more than a hundred years ago an artist painted a portrait of Mr. Jenkins, who was noted for his frequent libations. The artist invited the gentleman's friends to see it, and they inspected it and pronounced it excellent. One of them, however, who was near-sighted, complained of the light, approached it to change its position, when the artist exclaimed—"Dont touch it; it isn't dry." "Then it can't be my friend Jenkins," said he.

The Stockton Independent shows by a careful comparison of statistics that San Francisco, with a population of only 112,000, is twice as wealthy as Chicago, a city with 170,000 inhabitants and double the age of San Francisco; and that while the average of wealth to each citizen of San Francisco is $848, against $200 to each citizen of the interior, the average for each citizen of Chicago is only $300, against $474 in the whole State of Illinois.

A pro-slavery clergyman was recently traveling from New York to Boston. Being told that one of his fellow-passengers was Wendell Phillips, the noted abolitionist, he determined to enter into conversation. After a few moments' argument he said, "But if you are so opposed to slavery, Mr. Phillips, why don't you go down South and preach to the rebels?" "For the same reason, sir," was the reply, "that you do not go to hell to preach religion to sinners." The interlocutor sloped.

The Mercantile Gazette estimates the number of quartz mills in California at six hundred, which have been erected at a cost of $12,000,000. The Gazette continues: Allowing that these six hundred mills carry each ten stamps, and run three hundred days in a year, and that each stamp will crush one ton of rock daily, yielding $10 to the ton—all of which is in accordance with miners' estimates and not far from the facts, then we have from quartz mills the sum of $18,000,000 annually.

A lady of rebel sympathies in Louisville, saw a number of rough looking fellows passing our door under a strong guard, and of course inferred them to be prisoners from Hood's army. She asked permission of the Union officer in charge to entertain them with a dinner, which was readily granted. As they were thanking her for their hospitality, after the feast, the fact leaked out that the men were not rebels after all, but bounty-jumping deserters from regiments in Sherman's force.

Among the recent enlistments was a young soldier from France, named Richard Dumont. He is eighteen years of age, and his father was Colonel of the Fourteenth Zouaves, French army, and was killed in Mexico. The young man having previously lost his mother, and having no relatives in the world, concluded to come to America and see what he could do here. "I have nobody," he said, "who cares for me, and I don't care for anybody. I want to go into the army, and be sent to the front immediately."

When Sam Slick once repeats, in his own dialect—which makes a difference—a French exclamation he has lately heard, "What's that?" asks a friend, "Well, I didn't know," replies the Attache, in confidence, "for I never heerd the word afore; but it don't do to say you don't know, it lowers you in the eyes of other folks. If you don't know what another man knows, he is shocked at your ignorance. But if he don't know what you do, he can find an excuse in a minute. Never say you don't know."

A correspondent of the Alta says it is a rule among the Mohave Indians to put a doctor to death after he has killed ten patients. He says: A great man will rejoice, while others will mourn, to learn that "Eagle Sky," a kind of renegade Pah-Ute (who made a trip to Los Angeles a year and a half ago), has fallen a victim to Indian superstition. He set himself up for a doctor, failed and paid the penalty. They also killed three of his family with him, to make the sacrifice complete—one a beautiful young squaw, said to be his daughter.

The Nashville correspondent of the New York Times says: The ladies of Franklin, most of whom are rebels, and beautiful rebels, too, some of them are, assisted en masse in caring for our wounded. Mrs. Carter and her daughters contributed in this holy work. Mrs. Dr. Cliff, a Union lady of renown, and Mrs. Williams, an estimable woman, threw open their houses for the reception of sufferers. Miss Fanny Courtney, although she has two brothers in Cheatham's corps, made herself useful. Her sister, formerly Miss Octavia Courtney, was some time ago married to Lieutenant Cochnower, son of the merchant of that name, in Cincinnati. She is an elegant lady, and waved a string of red, white and blue ribbons when General Negley entered Franklin, nearly three years ago. When Buell's retrograde movement took place, a little over two years ago, Miss Fanny Courtney, upon the approach of the rebel columns, saddled a horse, forded Harpeth River, and came to this city alone, during the night. Fanny is all right—I know her; she is pretty, too.

A False Index.

There is a singular unanimity of sentiment to the rebel press wherever we find it. Its most high-toned, ultra, radical exponent is the Index, a London journal devoted to Confederate interests and disunion views; its most consistent members are found in the cities of the seceded States—consistent in a hate of American progress and federal union, though now becoming inconsistently quarrelsome with their President, their Generals and each other as the climax of disasters and calamities threaten to overwhelm the Confederacy. Descending in the scale of rebel journalism, the most depraved, mendacious and contemptible of the class is found in the Northern States, and of all the Northern States in Oregon. There is a difference in these even, for some, with their rebel instincts predominant, have still a touch of gentlemanly nature left, and forget to violate all the amenities and decencies of life, and do not prostitute themselves entirely to the base work of traducing the moral worth and private character of their opponents; while one, at least, is as mendaciously base as its mental calibre admits of, and as vitally false as the many years of libelous editorial experience of the mind that moves the poor puppet whose name is paraded before the public, can achieve.

All have the same continual song of slavery and freedom, though of course Oregon out-Herods Richmond. All are abundant in prophesy, for each one is a bird of ill omen to the Union cause, and not one comprehends the "logic of events," or realizes the progress the Union cause is making in the estimation of lookers on, who from a distance watch the struggle, though, to their credit be it spoken, the Richmond papers are beforehand to own their losses, and acknowledge to defeat.

A copy of the Index now before us has a long leader upon the new born powers of the North American Continent. There are three, it shows, dimly peering into the future from the swaddling clothes of new born National life. Each, too, must be of giant origin, for each is armed cap a pie. Each is a mailed warrior fitted at all points as the mythical Minerva was, when she left the brain of Jupiter. Each hurls thunderbolts of war, and the Index gives each a rank among the Nations. The Empire of Jeff Davis nearly four years old, is declared the oldest and pronounced the first. A glorious destiny the Index lays out for the bantling of slavery. Its empire is cottondom, with sugar and tobacco—provoking tantalizers of opposite appetite—thrown in, to season and flavor the dynasty to suit every taste. Mexico—poor distracted country, with its Priesthood, its Emperor, its Gwin, and its Republicanism—a conglomerate of evils—threatening ruin with each conflicting attempt of rule—comes next in order of chronology, for the Index bestows it all upon Maximilian and says his Empire is scarce a twelve month old. There at least we can agree. It is an ephemeral thing, born hurriedly, if at all, with Napoleon for a midwife, and with Gwin for its last wet nurse, but we expect confidently to see the day, when Emperor Maximilian will wish that either he, or the illusory Empire had never been born at all. Last, and apparently least—in the sublime impudence of words that the Index offers us—come the "New Federation of States that have recently elected Abraham Lincoln to preside over them."

The thing is dramatically stated. If intended for impudence, it is a most decided success. If meant for burlesque, the Index has made a hit; but if published as history, we will view it by the light of history, weigh it with the logic of events, and measure it by the length of Sherman's march, leaving the reader to imagine his army in possession of Savannah, with Porter's fleet and Terry's army in the Cape Fear River, additional features to illustrate the argument. On the 8th of December Sherman was marching, surmise only said where, and London did not know whither. The possibility of his success is to be inferred from the article in question, followed by the bold prediction that ruin awaited him. Without supplies, without resources, strangers in a strange land, the Yankees were to be gobbled up by the insatiate Georgians, and the dramatic version would be, "So much for Sherman."

But Sherman is still "marching on." New Orleans, held up as the only Southern port under Federal rule, now has Savannah for its twin. Wilmington and Charleston are not far off, and Mobile is useless to the Confederate cause; and giving secession the benefit of the two weeks and more of interval, since we have heard from the seat of war, we pronounce by the light of history, accumulating so fast upon our nation's pathway, that the London Index is no index of aught but the distempered fancies of a rebel. The Confederate Government may be over three years old on Confederate paper, but we confidently hope to see it extinct ere the summer's sun has passed into the autumn of '65. Maximilian may wear a tinsel crown, pinned to his head by Napoleon's bayonets, but we have no doubt that republicanism will have future rule in Mexico, and as to the "federation of States that have elected Lincoln," to bear date of birth on the fourth of March next, let the nations follow the sage advice given to recognize the South—of which there is no show of hope—and they will live to see a century hence, the same United States, born of the independence of 1776, still live to celebrate the event, governed by the constitution they adopted in 1789.

From Victoria.—The papers there seem taken up with discussing their future prospects of trade, and in that connection the mining and other resources of Vancouver and British Columbia are argued. The free port and the tariff questions are are still being discussed. A gold export bill has passed the Legislative Council of British Columbia. Gold dust is to pay a tax of about three per cent. on leaving, and bars assayed at New Westminster are to be taxed eighteen pence per ounce. Persons found trying to evade the law are to be arrested, fined or imprisoned.

There were symptoms of a thaw upon Fraser river.

Ex-Superintendent Smith, of the Victoria Police, had sued the proprietors of the Chronicle, for libel, placing damages at $10,000. The jury could not agree.

The Chronicle says of the Mradora: "This unfortunate vessel still floats! After the collision in the channel she was deserted by her crew, but did not sink, and several days after the collision was picked up at sea by an outward bound vessel, manned by a portion of her crew, and taken to the nearest port. This will now be a question for salvage.

Mr. Seward's passport system works a hardship in Victoria. According to the Chronicle the American Consul issued about a baker's dozen of passports to passengers bound for San Francisco. As this number is only one fourth of the number of passengers who left on the steamer, it is supposed the remainder had concluded to "run the gauntlet" of the lynx-eyed customs officials at San Francisco. We are gratified to notice by a late telegram that, in consequence of the energy displayed by the Canadian officials of late in preventing raids into the Northern States, Secretary Seward has in contemplation the abolition of the passport office. "A consummation most devoutly to be wished for."

Indian War in Colorado.—The Rocky Mountain News, of January 18th, gives us the following account of the commencement of the Indian difficulties that have finally resulted in the destruction of our telegraphic communication with the East. As usual, in such cases, a renegade white man was at the head of the savages:

There had been no premonition of an outbreak until the morning of the 7th inst. That morning Mr. Cross, who had charge of a four-mule outfit belonging to Mr. Post, started quite early from the American ranch, or vicinity, down the road. His wagon was loaded with passengers, numbering seven or eight. The first intimation they had of danger was when about five miles from the American, and within about the same distance of Valley Station. An Indian suddenly rode by the wagon from behind, and as he passed fired an arrow which grazed Mr. Cross' face but did not hurt him. The Indian rode on and struck the off leader over the head with his bow, evidently with the intention of turning the team out of the road.

Upon looking back, Mr. Cross found they were surrounded by forty or fifty Indians (some of the party estimated sixty or seventy). He whipped up his horses to outrun them, and the savages then began a terrible fire of balls and arrows. They were led by a white man, who rode close along side of Mr. C. for a long distance, and finally shot him, shattering his arm at the elbow. The team swerved from side to side, first leaving the road towards the river and then in the opposite direction. At last the Indians, to prevent its escape, shot the wheel horses so that they fell dead. The entire party, except Mr. Andrews, then made for the river bank, clubbing their guns and fighting that way. They had no arms loaded, and only three or four caps when the fight began—a remarkable instance of heedless recklessness. All except Andrews made their way to the station, and all were wounded; some of them in many places. One, a young man named Hill, of Chicago, will probably die, his skull being fractured by a rifle ball. Dr. H. amputated Cross' arm, and he and the other wounded are doing well. Andrews seems to have been killed instantly. The others escaped by getting down in the bottom of the wagon, which was completely riddled, and the cover stuck full of arrows. Mr. Cross is positive that he killed one Indian, and probably another.

About the time these wounded men reached the station, another party was seen coming down the road, who were attacked near the same place. One man was killed and the balance reached the station, wounded, like the first. They brought in one team, one mule of which dropped dead as it came up to the station, having been shot through with an arrow.

The same paper says:

The Central City Register, in referring to the late desperate battle at Julesburg, says: "These troops are an Ohio regiment and have been constantly been represented as a band of rebels and thieves, who have constantly annoyed the immigration without affording the least protection. If we mistake not they have shown themselves cowardly as well."

We fear that the editor of the Register is prone to judge others by himself. The meagre details of the battle published by us yesterday shows that it was one of the most terrible and gallant actions of the war. Forty men contending all day against fifteen hundred Indian warriors; losing one-third their number dead on the field and at last repulsing the enemy with a loss of fifty killed—including their chief—puts to the lie every suspicion or charge of cowardice. Instead of abuse, the remnants of that devoted little band deserve the united thanks of our people and of the Legislative Assembly of Colorado.

Soon after, a one-horse wagon came down the road, in which were two discharged soldiers; one believed to have belonged to the First, and the other to the Third regiment. They were attacked [illegible] had some scalps and Indian relics from Sand Creek, about which they had talked a great deal on the road. The opinion prevails that they were captured alive and reserved for torture.

These were the only attacks that were made above Julesburg, and but little has been seen of the Indians since. Dr. H. passed down to within thirty miles of Julesburg and back without seeing any. He left Godfrey's ranch yesterday morning. This morning we are in receipt of the following which speaks for itself:

Junction, Jan. 15, 11 P. M.—The American Ranch is burnt to the ground by the Indians. About 100 made an attack there yesterday morning. The inmates were all destroyed. Valley Station is burnt and the Wisconsin Ranch probably destroyed. A messenger just got here after help. The Indians attacked Godfrey's ranch, two miles this side of the American Ranch, and are fighting there now. The messenger got away and is here after help. That is probably where the line is down. I have my horse at the door and will start down immediately and get the line O. K. as soon as possible. All people in the ranches attacked were killed.

The Great Works of the Age—Progress of the Mont Cenis Tunnel.—In a highly interesting article in the Revue Contemporaine we find some curious details about the piercing of the tunnel between Modane and Bardoneche:

It is well known that the whole length of the tunnel, when completed, will be 12,220 metres. The machine used for the purpose is Sommeiller's perforator, set in motion by compressed air. It consists of a piston working horizontally in a cylinder, and carrying a chisel fixed upon it like a bayonet, which at each stroke dashes violently against the rock to be pierced. Each time, the chisel recoils it turns around in the hole, and as the latter is sunk deeper and deeper, the frame or shield, which carries nine perforators, advances in proportion. While the chisel is doing the work with extraordinary rapidity, a copper tube of a small diameter keeps squirting water into the hole, by which means all the rubbish is washed out. Behind the shield there is a tender, which by the aid of a pump set in motion by compressed air, feeds all these tubes with water. The noise caused by the simultaneous striking of the chisels against the rock is absolutely deafening, enhanced as it is by the echo of the tunnel.

All at once the noise ceases, the shields recede behind it, and the surface of the rock is perceived riddled with eighty holes, varying in depth between eighty and ninety centimetres. These holes are now charged with cartridges, slow matches burning at the rate of sixty centimetres per minute are inserted, and the men retire in haste. The explosion seems to shake the mountain to its roots. When all is over, the ground is found covered with fragments of rock, and an advance equal to the depth of the holes has been obtained.

On the Bardoneche side this year the average advance per month has been fifty metres; on the Modane side it has not exceeded thirty-eight metres per month, owing to the greater hardness of the rock on that side; there still remains a length of about six thousand two hundred and fifty metres to be got through. When completed, the tunnel will have required the piercing of one million two hundred and twenty-two thousand holes, five hundred and fifty thousand kilogrammes of powder, one million five hundred and fifty thousand metres of slow match; the number of bayonets rendered unserviceable will amount to two million four hundred and fifty thousand.

Slowness of War.—Parke Godwin, at a meeting held in the city of New York, recently, said:

Europe says that we are slow. I remember that it took Wellington six years to drive Napoleon out of Spain, a country as great as Virginia, and then he retired because of reverses elsewhere. Four nations of Europe took two years to occupy the Crimea, a country as large as New Jersey. England took twenty-eight months to repress the Sepoy rebellion, about as great an undertaking as to cut down a rebellion among the negroes of a South Carolina county. France has in more than a year succeeded in getting only about one hundred and eighty miles in Mexico, where she holds a very precarious position. We think that England had better look at home before criticising the movements of our armies.

Mexico.—President Juarez writes to a friend in one of the Eastern States in the following hopeful tone:

"Our situation is far from being hopeless, as our enemies are trying to make everybody believe. Our resources are great, the love of the Mexicans for their country, and their disposition to fight for its independence are unabated. Before long we will begin to show this more efficiently. The enthusiastic reception I have met in this State has strengthened my faith in the ultimate success of our holy cause."

The opposition steamer [illegible] and P. M. S. S. Co's steamer Sacramento arrived late last night. The Sacramento brought the accumulation of three weeks' overland mail, which had been returned to the East. It is the largest mail ever received here, numbering about [illegible] letters and [illegible] bags of papers.

The steamer Sacramento will sail on the 22d instead of the 23d—the object being to bring the steamer day on the 21st instead of the 22d, which is Washington's birthday.

The passengers of the Great Republic received a bad scare while off the coast of Rivera. They were followed by a steamer, supposed to be the pirate Florida, but after the Captain had prepared for a gallant defense, the steamer showed Peruvian colors, and passed on by.

By a private telegram dated Philadelphia, Feb. 3d, we have the following interesting intelligence: The third anniversary of the U. S. Christian Commission, was held in the Hall of the House of Representatives, at Washington, Sunday evening, Jan. 29th. The Hall was densely crowded, and thousands went away for want of room in which to stand. Secretary Seward presided and delivered an address. The President, Vice President, Speaker Colfax, Vice-Admiral Farragut, with numerous Senators, and Members of the House of Representatives, several Governors of States, Generals in the army and other distinguished men were present, in addition to Secretary Seward, Gen. Fiske, Senator Foster, and other speakers addressed the meeting. The interest was greater than ever before.

A meeting of equal power and enthusiasm was held in Philadelphia, in the Academy of Music, on the Tuesday evening following January 1st.

Alexander L. Barnes, formerly connected with the Ross' Brothers, died of heart disease yesterday. He was a well known capitalist and financier, and leaves about $300,000 worth of property.

J. M. Gatchell today received his commission as Special Agent of the Treasury Department.

T. W. Jones, first mate, and John Adolphus Tell, a ship carpenter, both died on board ship Coquimbo, from injuries received by falling down the ship's hold during the late voyage to Puget Sound.

Three rifle matches for $250 each will be shot at Bay View Park between Palmer, the Hoosier, from Austin, and Joseph Home, of this city. The matches are to be 50 yards off-hand with open sights; second, 150 yards off-hand with globe sights; third, 200 yards at a rest with globe sights.

Palmer also shoots a match with Elish T. Peck for $120, and another with John Ball for $25.

Fred. O. Wegener, of the insolvent firm of Wegener & Shoener, was discharged from his liabilities to-day.

The candle movement still continues with liberal sales at enhanced rates. All the recent receipts have been disposed of. Syrups are advancing rapidly. The agents of the local refineries have advanced their rates of Golden to 87 cts, and East Boston to 82@83 cts. per gallon. The excitement in provisions is great. For extra clear pork 38@40 is offered. Early in the day sales were made at 35. Sales of bacon, 20 pounds (tons?) of IXL at 20 cents. Flour and wheat are held with much firmness. More inquiry for oats and barley. Hay is scarce at the dock.

Potatoes drooping a little. Flour market higher. Sales of Alviso Mills at $13. We quote Genesee [illegible] extra, $12 25; superfine, $11 25; extra superfine, $11 75. Sales of Oregon extra at $11 50. We quote National Mills, extra, at $12; Golden Gate, at the same price. 50,000 half sacks of Chili for export was sold private. Wheat market firm, with sales of 825 sacks at $4 37½. Barley market dull, and nominal at $3@3 25 for California. 1,000 sacks of Chili, ex Agnes [illegible], sold at an advance.

The Herald of the Morning arrived to-day, 121 days from Boston.

A Dig at the Wires.—We have heard it gravely asserted that several persons now in the Insane Asylum, were driven into insanity by their frantic efforts to understand the telegraphic news. The efforts to make the statements of the telegraph harmonize were too much for reason; it deserted its throne, and the ranks of the insane were swelled by the unfortunate victims of telegraphians. We see no grounds for doubting the assertion. We know of several constant readers of the telegraphic dispatches who are constantly half crazy from the effects of their labors, and who already have the words "To Stockton" legibly imprinted upon their countenances.—Sacramento Bee.

The Dredger.—Mr. McCraken, from the co mittee on ways and means, submitted a report relation to their considerations upon this subje to the Common Council on Thursday eveni
The conclusions of the committee appeared to vor the endless chain machine, which is said possess advantages over any other, especially scoop machine, for the purposes required for t city, being more economical in its operation, le liable to get out of order, and more rapid in ex ecution. The original cost of such a machine greater than that of the scoop, but its ability perform the work required is more than equal the difference. The committee recommend t adoption of that kind of machine and that th should be authorized to receive estimates upon t plan already submitted to the Council, with prop specifications to be prepared, and also that t be further authorized to obtain specifications t the necessary boats for the proper working of machine. The report was adopted by the Boa unanimously, with the understanding that adoption authorized the recommendations to b carried out, and the committee were empowered receive estimates on the whole of the same, to b submitted to the Council at as early a day as p sible. The money being in the hands of the C Treasurer for its payment, we may presume th worst of the work over, and that our dredger w be afloat and in operation by the time it is need

Circuit Court.—The Grand Jury visited t Penitentiary and County Jail on Thursday, a the Insane Asylum and County Hospital yest day, reporting well, for the conductors of th institutions. The case of J. T. Gerow vs.
Morrell, Hill & Mulkey for plaintiff, and Mitch & Dolph for defendant, was disposed of by jud ment for plaintiff. This case came up on appe from the County Court, where it had been tw tried before, an action upon contract for the rec ery of a yoke of oxen, and the judgment bel is affirmed by this decision. The case of H. V Corbett vs. R. B. Ironsides, to recover costs merchandise, was disposed of by judgment t plaintiff to the amount of $217 29. In the case the State vs. James Dobson, $300 deposited in li of bail, was declared forfeited. Five indictmen were presented the defendants in two of which Julien Ladarew and John Scott charged w larceny, plead "not guilty," and will have tr
next week.

New Measurement Laws.—The Custom Hou authorities have commenced operations under th law of Congress passed May 6th, 1864, in rega to the remeasurement of vessels, etc, which we into force on the first day of January last. T object of the law is to bring all American vesse at as early a day as possible, under a uniform a exact system of measurement. Late revenue a require all vessels to pay annually certain tonna duties to the government. The old system nev gave correct results, sometimes being over a sometimes under the correct measurement. T great body of vessels, it is said, will rate less b the new system, which is fashioned after the pri ciples of Europe, and gives the actual cubi contents of a ship. On river craft we believe t rates run much higher.

A Novel Way of Closing up With Credito
—On the arrival of the last steamship from Cal fornia authority was granted by the creditors Simon & Davis for the attachment of their sto of merchandise in this city. The firm had sever outstanding accounts in Portland, also, and t matter so far culminated yesterday that th concluded to close up business, and let the cred ors take what they had, to "balance accounts Accordingly notification was given, and the cro assembled on the premises, each taking what thought would satisfy his claims, and in abo one hour the store was "cleaned out." It was very novel, but proved to be a very satisfacto way, of closing up with creditors.

From the Dalles.—Messenger Cann arriv
by the Wilson G. Hunt last evening, bringin Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express from the Dall
The stage from Walla Walla was detained Celilo on account of the heavy rains which h washed the railroad bridges out, flooded the wag road in many places, and rendered travel imp sible. On Thursday Mr. George Thomas and M Welch arrived at the Dalles, having walked part of the way from Celilo, and it was thoug
the Express would be got through yesterday etc., will be repaired immediately. The riv above Dalles will be open within a few days, qu certain.

Birth on Board the Senator.—Yesterda
Mrs. Doty gave birth to a fine boy on board the steamer Senator, between this city and Oreg
City, while en route from Umatilla to h home in Polk county, accompanied by her hu band. The officers of the boat rendered eve assistance possible, to afford comforts to the ca which was quite out of the ordinary rule of trav and the matron and her child were left at Oreg City "as well as could be expected." The b was named in honor of the boat, Senator Dot Quite an event.

A Severe Case.—Dr. Chapman was call upon yesterday afternoon to attend a case of rather severe character, being to dress t wounds of a lady who had been stabbed by h brother, a youth of some twelve summers, wh in a fit of anger. The stab took effect in the l clavicle, severing a branch of the great nerve, flicting a very dangerous wound. The subject one which affords a field for comment on the d pravity of the youth of Portland, but as we hav already said much about such matters, and spare the parents the infliction of having th neglect in proper training set forth, we forbe further comment.

The Steamship Oregon.—The steamer Ja was dispatched for the vicinity of the mouth the Cowlitz river late on Thursday evening, in sponse to a message from the steamship Oreg
which had been grounded, during the pitchy da ness and snow squalls of the night before, in g ing from this city down the Columbia. The could be no blame attached to any one, as understand it, for it was an affair in which t elements alone were at fault, although, the st went aground outside of the channel.

A Large Buck Captured.—Capt. McNult of the steamer Idaho, yesterday captured a lar buck swimming in the river above the Cascade
It was run down by a small boat and hauled on the deck of the steamer by ropes and was se as a present to Col. J. S. Ruckle, President of t O. S. N. Company, of this city, arriving last ev ning in care of Thomas H. Cann, Messenger Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, and may be se at Green's Park to-day.

Snow and Rain.—We received a "fine sprin ling" of these contingencies of the blue ether yesterday. Their coming was somewhat "mixe —so much so that it would be impossible to ju which of them predominated at times, but for t day, no doubt exists as to present awarding greatest amount to rain. The river is raising r idly from the effects of the last few show days.

Recorder's Court.—In Recorder's Court y terday the following gentry were fined in the spective amounts set opposite their names, penalty and costs for perpetrating Miss Demea ors: North Wellington—no relation of the D
—$27; Andrew Aquillard, $10; Ira W. Pra alias for his devotion—$30; James Murphy, w discharged.

Resigned.—We learn that the efficient stew of the steamer John H. Couch, for so many y past, Mr. Rickards, has resigned his po and is now among the "lands men" of city. William was the man for the place, and feel certain in saying, that to find a better needs some searching among the human spec

Washing Made Easy.—Traver & Brother vertise in another column an improved self adju ing clothes wringer, which, taken in connec with Hatton's patent wash boiler, exhibited the side walk in front of J. R. [illegible] store yesterday, renders a day's washing very with comparatively no expense for fuel.

Willamette Theatre.—Stark street was tual last evening, on account of no play a old Theatre, but for the benefit of those wh
"dead" on such occasions, "Dred, or the D Swamp," and "Colleen Bawn" will be produ at the Theatre to-night.

Auction To-Day.—A. B. Richardson offer at his rooms to-day a lot of crockery groceries, which cannot fail to draw out a c of purchasers. Read his advertisement in an column, and embrace the opportunity to buy selves rich.

NEW MEASUREMENT LAWS.—The Custom House authorities have commenced operations under the law of Congress passed May 6th, 1864, in regard to the remeasurement of vessels etc, which went into force on the first day of January last. The object of the law is to bring all American vessels, at as early a day as possible, under a uniform and exact system of measurement. Late revenue acts require all vessels to pay annually certain tonnage duties to the government. The old system never gave correct results, sometimes being over and sometimes under the correct measurement. The great body of vessels, it is said, will rate less by the new system, which is fashioned after the principles of Europe and gives the actual cubical contents of a ship. On river craft we believe the rates ran much higher.

The stab took effect in the left clavicle, severing a branch of the great nerve, inflicting a very dangerous wound. The subject is one which affords a field for comment on the depravity of the youth of Portland but as we have already said much about such matters and to spare the parents the infliction of having their neglect in proper training set forth, we forbear further comment.

THE STEAMSHIP OREGON.—The steamer John [illegible] was dispatched for the vicinity of the mouth of the Cowlitz river late on Thursday evening, in response to a message from the steamship Oregon which had been grounded during the pitchy darkness and snow squalls of the night before in going from this city down the Columbia. There could be no blame attached to any one as we understand it, for it was an affair in which the elements alone were at fault, although the ship went aground outside of the channel.

A LARGE BUCK CAPTURED.—Capt McNulty of the steamer Cowlitz yesterday captured a large buck swimming in the river above the Cascades. It was run down by a small boat and hauled up on the deck of the steamer by ropes and was sent as a present to [illegible] S. Ruckle, President of the O. S. N. Co. [illegible] city arriving last evening in care of Thomas H. Cann, Messenger of Wells, Fargo & Co's Express and may be seen at [illegible] to day.

SNOW AND RAIN.—We received a fine sprinkling of the ingredients of the blue ethereal yesterday. The raining was somewhat "mixed" so much so that it would be impossible to judge which of them predominated at times but for the [illegible] to prevent awarding the greatest amount to rain. The river is raising rap[illegible] from the effects of the last few showers [illegible]

RECORDER'S COURT.—In Recorder's Court yesterday the following gentry were fined the respective amounts set opposite their names [illegible] for perpetrating Miss Bouchan [illegible] North Wellington—no relation of the Duke [illegible] Apollard $10; Ira W Pray—[illegible] for his devotion—$10, James Murphy, was discharged.

RESIGNED.—We learn that the efficient steward of the steamer John H Couch, for so many years past, Mr Rickards, has resigned his position [illegible] now among the [illegible] of our city. William was the man for the place and we feel certain [illegible] to find a [illegible] some searching among the human [illegible]

A WASHING MADE EASY.—Beaver & Brother advertise in another column a [illegible] self adjusting [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with comparatively no expenditure.

WILLAMETTE THEATER.—Stark street [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Dred or the Dismal Swamp [illegible] will be produced at the Theater [illegible]

AUCTION TO-DAY.—A B Richardson will [illegible] day a lot of crockery and groceries [illegible] draw out a crowd of purchasers [illegible] [illegible] in another column and embrace the opportunity to buy your selves rich

DEATH OF MOSBY.—The New York correspondent of the [illegible] writes:

There seems good reason to believe that this noted guerrilla chief has met his fate at last. On the 17th December a cavalry expedition started out to scour the country east of the Blue Ridge in search of Mosby and his gang, who had been [illegible] troops in the [illegible] Valley. A cavalry regiment after [illegible] arrived at [illegible] at night. While [illegible] the men [illegible] a house [illegible] with a sentinel posted in front. They fired upon the sentinel who [illegible]. The noise brought the officer to the door with a pistol in his hand. [illegible] the officer but he was fired upon, a ball taking effect in his bowels and mortally wounding him. His orderly was secured, but refused to give the name of the officer. Subsequently a relative was captured containing a letter from a Mrs [illegible] friend of Mosby stating that he had been killed describing the manner of his death [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] has friends. The rebels have had few adherents who excelled Mosby in skill daring or cruelty.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes during a season, from some one however slightly [illegible] of the above symptoms—a neglect of which [illegible] to the last named and most [illegible] be [illegible] in the whole catalogue. The power of [illegible] of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known [illegible] great is the good it has performed and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve and to [illegible] exists in no other medicine yet discovered. The [illegible] success that has attended the application of this [illegible] in all cases of

LE DOYEN'S

SARSAPARILLA, YELLOW DOCK

—AND—

IODINE ALTERATIVE

FOR THE CONSTITUTION.

CLEANSE THE BLOOD.

WITH corrupt, disordered or vitiated Blood you must be sick all over. It may burst out in pimples or sores, or in some active disease, or it may merely keep you listless, depressed and good for nothing. But you cannot have good health while your blood is impure. Sarsaparilla purges out these impurities and stimulates the organs of life into vigorous action, restoring the health and repelling disease. Hence it rapidly cures a variety of complaints which are caused by impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula or King's Evil, Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Cancer or Cancerous Tumors, Sore Eyes, Female Diseases, such as Retention, Irregularity, Suppression, Whites, Sterility, Syphilis or Venereal Diseases, Liver Complaints and Heart Diseases.

Blood and Liver.

This valuable Medicine is now available to the public for the cure of SCROFULA, CONSUMPTION, RHEUMATISM, CANCER, HEART, LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASES, NEURALGIA, NERVOUS AFFECTIONS, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, &c.

AS A TONIC,

its operations are evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increasing the appetite. In cases of Dyspepsia, Emaciation and Debility, an increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Are you sick, feeble and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged and your feelings uncomfortable? These symptoms are often the prelude to serious illness. Some fit of sickness is creeping over you, and should be averted by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Le Doyen's Sarsaparilla and cleanse out the disordered system—purify the blood and let the fluids move on unobstructed in health again.

AS A LITHONTRIPTIC,

it has no equal, being chemically combined with Iodine, it possesses in a high degree the power of dissolving Stone in the Bladder, and urators of the kidneys, preventing gravel formation and enlargement of the prostrate glands, irritation of the neck of the bladder, dropsy, etc.

My Autumn Walk

On woodland roads with autumn
The amber sunset [illegible] lies,
I look on the beauty round me,
And tears come into my eyes.

For the wind that sweeps the meadow Blows out of the far Southwest,
Where our gallant men are fighting,
And the gallant dead are at rest.

The golden-rod is leaning,
And the purple aster waves
In a breeze from the land of battles,
A breath from the land of graves.

Full fast the leaves are dropping
Before that wandering breath;
As fast, on the field of battle,
Our brethren fall in death.

Beautiful over my pathway
The forest spoils are shed;
They are spotting the grassy hillocks
With purple and gold and red.

Beautiful is the death-sleep
Of those who bravely fight
In their country's holy quarrel,
And perish for the Right.

But who shall comfort the living,
The light of whose homes is gone:
The bride that, early widowed,
Lives broken-hearted on;

The matron whose sons are lying
In graves on a distant shore;
The maiden, whose promised husband
Comes back from the war no more.

I look on the peaceful dwellings
Whose windows glimmer in sight,
With croft and garden and orchard
That bask in the mellow light;

And I know that when our couriers
With news of victory come,
They will bring a bitter message
Of hopeless grief to some.

Again I turn to the woodlands,
And shudder as I see
The mock-grape's blood-red banner
Hung out on the cedar tree;

And I think of days of slaughter,
And the night-sky red with flames,
On the Chattahoochee's meadows,
And the wasted banks of the James.

Oh, for the fresh spring-season,
When the groves are in their prime;
And far away in the future
Is the frosty autumn-time!

Oh, for that better season,
When the pride of the foe shall yield,
And the hosts of God and Freedom
March back from the well-won field;

And the matron shall clasp her first-born
With tears of joy and pride;
And the scarred and war-worn lover
Shall claim his promised bride!

The leaves are swept from the branches;
But the living buds are there,
With folded flower and foliage,
To sprout in a kinder air.

The White Hand.

"Clew up the foresail!" shouted the first mate of the Huron.

This order was not given a moment too soon. The gale commenced in the morning, and had been gradually increasing until eight bells in the first night watch, eight o'clock, when it seemed to have reached its climax, and blew "great guns" from the north-west.

There was also a tremendous sea, which made everything crack in the old craft, as she reeled and plunged in the stormy sea.

The fore and mizen topsails had been taken in, and nothing now remained, with the exception of a close reefed topsail, the topmast staysail, and the foresail, the last mentioned of which was already giving ominous warning of an "intention" to part company with the old ship, and fly off in tatters to leeward.

But, as we have seen, the mate was determined not to permit a catastrophe of this nature. In obedience to his orders the men sprang to the clewlines, buntlines, and sheets. Then, as the ship gave a sudden lurch to windward, the sheets were let go, and by quick, vigorous work, the flapping sail was clewed up ere it began again to fill.

In less time than is occupied in relating the fact, the men were skipping out upon both yard-arms, and presently they were engaged in pulling up the sail. Suddenly, however, the ship made a furious plunge, the sail flew up, and Tom Leaward, the best seaman and most jovial shipmate that ever handled a marlin-spike, was knocked from the weather yard arm into the tempestuous sea.

"Man overboard! Man overboard! Tom Leaward is overboard!" came from the fore-yard in wild, ringing tones.

"A rope! a rope!" was shrieked from the jaws of the remorseless waves.

Springing to the main rigging, the mate snatched a coil from a pin, and hurled it toward the white face, which he could just distinguish through the gloom that shrouded the wild waters.

Then he darted off and threw himself into the mizzen chains.

Tom had suddenly grasped the rope thrown to him, as the mate perceived, upon gaining the position to which we have alluded. Peering into the waves beneath him, he beheld the drowning seaman clinging to the piece of rigging with a tenacious grasp.

Suddenly the ship rolled over to windward, bringing Tom so near the mate that the latter might have touched him. The next moment a huge wave broke over the head of the struggling man, and he threw up one of his hands. That hand the mate might easily have grasped, and thus saved the life of Tom Leaward. But instead of doing so, he drew back, muttering something between his teeth, while the phosphorescent gleam of the water lighting his features, revealed a dark and almost fiendish expression in his eyes!

An instant afterward, the ship rolled back to leeward—and Tom was seen no more.

Why had the mate refused to grasp the extended hand? Surely some demon must have been near to suggest the dark thought to his brain which had prompted him to act in this manner, to remind him that he might thus avenge himself upon the man for whom Lucy Manton had rejected him, confessing at the time that Tom Leaward was her acknowledged lover.

But now the mate stood glaring upon the dark waters that rolled beneath him; and a terrible feeling of remorse came over his spirit, causing big drops of perspiration to stand out upon his forehead, while he felt as though a vulture was gnawing at his heart.

Oh, were it possible for Tom to make his appearance again, to raise his hand once more above the contending waves, how gladly, how eagerly would the mate have grasped the quivering fingers and saved the young man's life!

But, alas! that could never happen; and the mate turned his face from the dark sea, with a groan and a shudder. He felt that conscience would destroy the peace of his life time; that he could never again look a fellow-creature in the eye with a steady glance.

As he grasped the shrouds for the purpose of returning to the deck, he beheld a white, boyish face peering at him over the rail. An exclamation of horror escaped the lips of the mate, for he believed that this person had been a witness to the event that had recently taken place.

"Who is there?" he asked, in a hollow voice.

"Ha! ha! ha!!" laughed the other, tossing his arms above his head; "it's only me, Lucius, you know: only Lucius who could not sleep, and came up to see the man drown. Didn't you see his hand thrown out of the water? It was a right royal sight to see the way his hand went up! But why didn't you catch it and pull him on? Lucius would have done so! Lucius wouldn't have let him go down!"

"Hush! hush!" whispered the mate as he sprang to the deck. "Go down below, and never say that again!"

The lunatic, for such he was, shrank away, muttering, "The hand! the hand! A right royal sight was the hand raised up over the water!"

"Go below, I tell you!" cried the mate fiercely, as he snatched the belaying pin from the rail.

At this sight the boy disappeared through the companion-way with a wild cry, and with both hands clasped over the top of his head. For there, on the crown, he had been struck, a few weeks previously, by a block which had fallen from aloft, injuring him so badly that reason deserted him.

Shortly after the disappearance of the boy, the men who had completed their work on the foreyard came "tumbling" aft in a body to hear about their shipmate.

"It is no use," said the mate, not daring to lift his eyes; "you will never see poor Tom again! He let go the rope the moment I was about to seize him! I think when the ship lurched, she must have struck him on the head!"

This explanation satisfied the men, who returned to the forecastle to hold a mournful discussion upon the fate of their shipmate.

Shortly afterward, the other watch was called; and when the men composing it were made acquainted with the fate of Tom Leaward, the melancholy news cast a shade over the spirits of all, while many of the old seamen actually shed tears, so much was the young sailor beloved by the crew.

The larboard watch having been relieved, they went below; but not one of the men could sleep so soon after the sad event which had taken place.

At the end of five hours they were again on deck to relieve their shipmates. The weather had not changed since they went below. The gale continued to sweep with a dismal shriek through the shrouds, and the old ship plunged wildly through the heavy seas. The gloom would have been intense, but for the strange, phosphorescent light emitted by the waves. Sparks of fire seemed to flash among the white clouds of foam as they drifted over the sea. A child to have seen the spectacle might have fancied that the stars had fallen from the sky into the ocean.

"Poor Tom Leaward! His grave is among these fire flies of the sea!" thought the sailors, as they gazed upon the wild waters.

Suddenly they were startled by a cry from the mate, who had been leaning over the quarter-rail with his eyes fixed on the turbulent billows.

"Oh, heavens! heavens!"

The men rushed aft in a body, when, by the light of the ship's lantern, they beheld their officer staggering toward the mizzen mast like a drunken man, his face as pale as death, his lips colorless, and his eyes bulging from his head, with an expression of terror.

"What is the matter, sir?" inquired one of the men.

"There! there!" gasped the mate, pointing to the weather-rail; "under the ship's quarter! I saw it! I saw it! Oh, heavens!"

The men sprang to the bulwarks, and peered over them into the sea. At first they could see nothing, but the next moment, as a huge wave swept against the side of the vessel and scattered into liquid fragments, they uttered a simultaneous cry of superstitious horror; for they now distinctly beheld a white hand raised above the water!

Shudderingly they started back, and stood gazing at each other, with pale faces and wondering eyes. Not a word was spoken for some moments, when one of them, an old sailor, shook his head ominously, and remarked, "I fear that it means no good to the old craft, my lads. I take it as a sort of warning from poor Tom's spirit!"

The men now ventured to look over the rail again; but this time the hand was not to be seen.

"It's gone, sir," said the old sailor, turning to the mate. "What d'ye think was the meaning of it?"

"I don't know," said the mate, in a husky voice; "you had better go forward—go forward, all of you!" he added almost fiercely.

The men obeyed, when the mate commenced to pace the deck, with rapid strides.

"It could not have been mere fancy," he muttered; "for they saw it too! Heavens, that fearful sight! It was his hand—his hand as I beheld it—when—"

He concluded, with a groan, and advancing fearfully to the rail, again peered into the sea. But nothing was now to be seen, except the wildly hissing waters; and he breathed a sigh of relief.

"Perhaps I shall never see it again!" he muttered. "May Heaven grant that such may be the case!"

And he resumed his nervous walk upon the quarter-deck, occasionally advancing to the rail to cast a frightened glance into the water, and, muttering a low "Thank Heaven!" when he perceived the vision was not there.

A few hours afterwards the dawn of light began to steal upon the waters, and the other watch was called. Of course the men did not fail to relate the affair of the hand to their wonder-stricken shipmates; and, as many of the listeners were superstitious, the effect can be better imagined than described.

All seemed to agree that it was a warning from their drowned messmate—a dark warning of shipwreck or some other calamity. Even the captain, who prided himself on his wisdom, seemed to entertain the same opinion. The carpenter was immediately dispatched to examine the hold, while the officers were ordered to go within the craft, from stem to stern, to see if everything was in its place and in ship-shape condition.

The carpenter and the officers having brought a satisfactory report to the captain, the latter answered that his conscience was satisfied, and that if the vessel took it into her head to go to the bottom, it would not be his fault.

The subsidence of the gale was followed by a week of good weather, during which nothing was seen of the mysterious hand which had created so much excitement among the crew of the Huron. The vessel was now approaching Cape Horn, and rough weather was looked for. It came thundering upon the old craft one night, just as the larboard watch made its appearance on deck, compelling every rag to be taken in, with the exception of the main topsail, and in a short time even that was reduced to a goose-wing.

It was a gloomy night—the storm howling a thousand furies through the shrouds of the vessel, which was every moment swept by heavy seas. The men of the watch were soon gathered aft under the round-house, closely muffled in their pea-jackets, while their officer stood by the weather rail. He had been looking to windward, but now happening to cast a glance under the ship's quarter, he again beheld above the surface of the raging tides that fearful hand, which he had hoped that he would never see again. Yes, there it was, as before, whitely gleaming in the phosphorescence of the sea!

With one wild and terrible cry the mate fell senseless upon the deck; and, at the same moment, a huge wall of water rushed down upon the ship, and lifting him like a feather, carried him far away to the leeward. The men rushed from their shelter, upon hearing the cry of their officer, to ascertain its cause; but the noise of the approaching sea warned them to save themselves by clinging to the running rigging of the mizzen-mast. Now, however, they sprang to the weather rail, just in time to get a glimpse of the hand before it disappeared.

"Boys," said the old seaman to whom we have before alluded, "you'll see that hand no more. It was a warning of the doom of our mate, who has been washed overboard. I saw his form as it was carried off by the sea!"

We have but a few more words to add. When the rest of the crew were made acquainted with the facts we have just related, the excitement was intense, and numberless were the questions showered upon the larboard watch.

The loss of the mate, coupled as it was with the appearance of the mysterious hand, seemed to inspire every man with feelings of superstitious awe. The next day it was rumored that the captain had found in the room of the lunatic a piece of heavy wood with a stuffed glove attached to it, in such a way as to occupy an upright position. A [illegible] string was attached to this contrivance, by which means the boy could have jerked it through the dead-light into the sea.

Our readers will remember that the sight of Tom's hand, raised above the water, produced a strange impression upon the deranged brain of Lucius. [illegible] with the strange whim [illegible] the device alluded to.

The great portion of the crew, however, refused to credit the rumor, and always insisted that the hand they had seen was that of their beloved shipmate, who had resorted to this means to warn them of the doom which finally befell the mate of the Huron.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED

In One Minute.

New York, September 2, 1864.

F. Thomas, Esq., 218 Battery street, Between Commercial and Clay, San Francisco:

DEAR SIR, WE NOTICE AN ADvertisement in your daily [illegible] the "Security" of the "Lillie" Lock. [illegible]

[illegible], March 26, 1864.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland, Sole Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. [illegible] I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We found our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe, with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible [illegible] enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we found M. Keith & Hardy just opening their safe, TILTON & McFARLAND'S make, and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar, such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a far greater heat than that of our own, we being in the adjoining business and had but little in the cellar. [illegible] another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same firing, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) GEO. L. [illegible] & CO.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DIScovery of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to over estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It has to act upon the

HEART, LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS and GLANDULAR SYSTEM, and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless until Dr. Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a means of dissolving it [illegible].

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER

without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1856, page 70.)

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

The operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color, and the pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes fully strong and florid.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS AT tended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions to the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivaled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above-mentioned, and also

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY, LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION, INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease in any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once relieved, revived and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The drooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine reaches by CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, AND CATARRH OF THE BLADDER, STRANGURY AND BURNING OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY it in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Males or Females,

LEFFEL'S AMERICAN

DOUBLE TURBINE WATER WHEEL!

LEFFEL'S AMERICAN TURBINE HAS many advantages over all other Wheels, both Turbines and Overshot.

It has competed successfully with every variety of Wheel, and has always proved itself victorious.

This Wheel has been in use nearly Three Years in the States and HAS NEVER MADE A FAILURE.

It is CHEAPER than an Overshot, MORE DURABLE, and will YIELD A HIGHER PER CENT. OF POWER from the same quantity of water. We have introduced five on this coast. They are not all in operation yet, but will be in a few days. The following testimonial is from an old and experienced Mill-wright, well known in this State:

WESTPORT, CLATSOP CO., OREGON,
Nov. 19th, 1864.

MESSRS. LEFFEL & MYERS—Dear Sirs: We have plenty of water now, and your DOUBLE TURBINE is in successful operation. We are satisfied that your Wheel is fully equal, if not superior to the Overshot. With the same water that the Overshot uses, we can do more work with the Turbine than with the Overshot. I have tried many Wheels which were claimed to be superior to an Overshot, but yours is the first I have found. Hence we do not hesitate to recommend the American Double Turbine as the most efficient economizer of water in our knowledge.

JOHN WEST & CO.

We desire all who want Wheels to visit the following named places and have ocular demonstration of the above facts:

John West & Co. West Port, Clatsop County, Oregon;
Lewis Love, Vancouver, W. T.;
I. P. Lamberg, Idaho City, I. T.;
Hampton Kelly, three miles East of Portland;
Savier & Co., Oregon City. Address
Dec. 2, 1864. LEFFEL & MYERS,
Portland, Oregon,
Care Richards & McCraken.

N. B.—A new supply of Wheels will be brought out next May or June. Orders will be filled and supplied according to date of order. dec21law6m

THE OREGONIAN,

FIRST-CLASS POLITICAL AND FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Published Daily and Weekly.

PROSPECTUS FOR THE FIFTEENTH VOLUME, Commencing November 15th, 1864.

The character of the OREGONIAN, which has been regularly issued for fourteen years, being the oldest newspaper in the State, has become so well established and is so favorably known, that we hardly deem it necessary at the present time to announce that it will continue to be a FIRST-CLASS INDEPENDENT FAMILY AND POLITICAL NEWSPAPER. We shall spare no effort towards further improvement and progress, and to make the OREGONIAN not only a complete compendium of current news and passing events, but also a pleasant fireside companion and a faithful commercial guide. It will contain full reports of important naval, military and political movements, with Stories, Sketches, Poetry, Editorials upon current topics. Correspondence from different sources and Telegraphic Despatches up to the time of going to press.

It is the only paper in Oregon that gives full and ungarbled Telegraphic Reports, and that receives these reports in full expressly for its own columns.

The size of the WEEKLY is much enlarged with the commencement of the present volume, but the price remains still at the low sum of THREE DOLLARS per annum, hoping thereby to secure an increase of circulation as a reward of our enterprise.

Our columns will be devoted to the advocacy of Union principles, and we hope by a candid and courteous discussion of political principles to command readers of every political complexion and the respect of all our readers.

We shall especially endeavor to conserve the interests and merit the patronage of the large and important mining regions of Idaho, Washington and our own State, to publish all matters of interest relating thereto, and do justice to their growth and importance, and shall endeavor to receive interesting and reliable correspondence from that section of country.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

HARPER'S

NEW MONTHLY MAGAZI

Critical Notices of the Press.

It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The fireside never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant (Baltimore).

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellence of HARPER'S MAGAZINE—a journal with a monthly circulation of 17,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the American People, and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood-cuts; and it combines in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trübner's Guide to American Literature, London.

The volumes bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading such as cannot be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Boston Courier.
